

ABSTRACT

Soot induced kinematic viscosity increase of lubricating oil compositions for diesel engines can be ameliorated by combined use of derivatized high molecular 5 weight olefin copolymers and high molecular weight nitrogen-containing dispersant.